

Brookfield's Open Farm Day
August 8, 2009
8am -4pm

Come and see what's growing in Brookfield!

Once again Brookfield's agricultural community will open their barn doors to all. This event is sponsored by the Brookfield Agricultural Commission. There are currently 15 farms that will be open to the public. You will find everything from horses to pumpkins. See how goat cheese is made at our state certified goat dairy farm. Come face to face with a llama. Pick your own blueberries. Learn about raised bed gardening and aquaponics. You will learn a lot if you visit our farms. Brochures and farm descriptions are available at the Brookfield Town Office and on Saturday's at the Wakefield Marketplace on Rt. 16. Maps and info will be available at the Old Brookfield Town House starting at 8 am on August 8th.

There are many other activities happening on August 8th

Brookfield's Old Home Day

Start the day with pancakes at the Town House 8 am to 10 am. Enjoy the Old Home Day exhibits and Brookfield history at the Town House and the attached 1802 Churchill Schoolhouse. Go on the hikes and walks led by the Conservation Commission to many of the great places in Brookfield. At 4pm in the Town Office Building Peter Lamb is presenting a talk on the History of Cottage Industries. Finish off the day with a ham and bean supper and blueberry pie baking contest from 5:30-7:30pm at the Town House followed by music with Lance MacLEAN, Seth Austen and friends

Hope To See You There!
